Business: The group's principal activities are to design, develop and implement a proposed comprehensive high-speed communication infrastructure. This is designed to utilize existing electrical power distribution lines as a high-speed communication medium, thereby enabling existing electrical distribution systems to function as broadband pipelines. The group's proposed powerline telecommunication solution is based on establishing and maintaining partnership relationships with utilities and electrical power distribution companies, as well as developing and maintaining business relations with telecommunication service and technology companies. The four primary sectors for the proposed powerline communications related products and services are urban, rural, suburban and underserved/underdeveloped.
